THE WORLD'S FAIR

As Seen by the Republican's
Correspondent.The First of a Series of Interesting
Letters by an Observant
Writer.

[Special Correspondence.]

CHICAGO, Ill., June 4.—Well, I have been to the fair. What did I see? I would very much like to tell you all I saw, but it is an utter impossibility. It would take one of those irrepressible Phoenix kids ten years to see half of it and then he would have to possess second sight and an extra pair of eyes in the seat of his pantaloons. In the first place, everybody goes to the fair that can resurrect an old four-bit piece. You can see the family man, who has taken a day's vacation, plodding around with his basket on one arm and a capacious lunch basket on the other, followed by a line of children ranging from 15 years old down to the small toddler. They have come to see it all in one day and I pity the condition of their spines for the next week, judging from my personal experience, mine having assumed a decided tendency toward the other side since my first visit. I hope, however, to straighten it out inside of the next thirty days. You can see young and old, healthy and unhealthy, new faces and ancient ones; in fact, all kinds of humanity bent on the same purpose—to see the fair. No one can leave the grounds begrudging the 50 cents admission.

It is simply wonderful. The 700 acres are crowded with buildings and humanity, although a great many of the exhibits are closed to the public on account of their incompleteness, the majority are in full blast and every day opens up some new feature. The manufacturers' building, art buildings, machinery hall, the United States government building, transportation building, fisheries building, women's building, horticultural building and the mining building, are now fully complete, as are also most of the state buildings, excepting California's, which is a mass of wooden barrels and boxes. It will be a month or more before the whole thing is complete, and even then it may be still further delayed. Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma have a little building all to themselves, so small it requires a compass and a microscope to find it. The Arizona exhibit of petrified trees is very elegant, but controlled by the St. Paul, Minn., firm who polish the stones for ornamental purposes. This exhibit is in the north wing of the manufacturers' building. The Copper Queen Mining Co., of Bisbee, has a very creditable exhibit of ores in the mining building. This is all I could find to show me the people of Arizona were living.

Montana's silver statue of Ada Rahman was unveiled before yesterday and attracts considerable attention. The only objection to it that I can hear of is a surplus of clothing on the voluptuous form of Ada. Her features have the appearance of being in pain, and for my part I think you can see prettier women on the street any day in the week.

The Turks are here in great numbers and seem to have a monopoly of the rug and fancy ornament business. They charge four times the actual value for every article sold.

As to the restaurants, there are dozens of them and you can suit the size of your purse in matters of expenditure. The immense harvest these people expected to reap has so far been a failure and most of them have taken a grand tumble in their prices. Anyone contemplating a visit to Chicago need not fear being robbed, as all extortion can easily be avoided by keeping your eyes open and not biting as soon as you see a bait. Quite a number of Arizonaans are in the city and seem to be enjoying themselves.

It may be recollected the entire exhibit can be seen for 50 cents, excepting the numerous attractions in Midway Plaisance where the admission ranges from 10 cents up to $1.

Most of these villages and sidashows are the worst kind of "fakes." Among the legitimate ones are the German, Austrian and Javanese villages, the glass workers, the streets of Cairo and the trained animals.

A good Mexican village would be a paying investment.

FELL INTO RUINS.

Ford's Opera House Falls to Pieces.Over Four Hundred Clerks in the Building and Many Fatally Injured.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—[Associated Press.]—Ford's opera house on Tenth street, in which President Lincoln was assassinated, has just fallen in. About four hundred government clerks were in the building at the time and a great loss of life is feared.

The first floor collapsed through weakness, caused by excavating a cellar and in its fall carried down three floors, and with them hundreds of clerks.

The dead and wounded are being taken out rapidly by the firemen and police. All the ambulances in the city have been summoned and the rescued are being conveyed to the hospitals. It is feared a hundred people have been killed. The scene was terrible. Some of the unfortunates jumped from the third floor.

The walls are all standing, but every floor is down and every window is blown out. The building had been condemned as unsafe some time ago, but sentiment kept it unchanged. The floors were heavily loaded with records

Twenty-Eight Injured Rescued.

The clerks employed there are all men. There were over 400 clerks in the building. Scarcely one escaped more or less injury. Twenty-eight have been taken from the ruins up to 10:15 a. m. The emergency hospital is crowded with dead and injured. The injuries, from the very nature of the affair, were severe, being crushed and broken limbs and internal injuries. Thousands surround the scene and the excitement has spread all over the city. The remains of a young man not yet identified, have just been placed in the morgue at the emergency hospital. This makes the number of known dead, up to the present time, eleven. It is believed that fully sixty are still in the ruins.

It will probably be two or three hours before the mass of debris can be cleared away and the exact number of those who went down in the crash can be known. There is no doubt that several bodies are still in the ruins.

When the crash came there were supposed to be in the building 496 clerks, 18 messengers, 20 laborers—534 in all. Up to this hour sixteen bodies have reached the morgue.

Four of the city hospitals give the following details:

Emergency hospital, 23 injured, 4 dead.

Providence hospital, E. Gerniss, head cut, injured internally; W. S. Guerin, Ohio, arm broken.

National Homeopathic hospital, Clifton Lowe, Iowa, scalp injured.

Freedman's hospital, Dr. James Howard, (colored,) scalp cut and internal injuries.

Garfield Memorial hospital, J. H. Thomas, Sedalia, Mo., arm broken.

THE COURTS.

Both the Federal and District Divisions in Session.

The day was taken up yesterday by both the United States and district divisions of the court. United States District Attorney Ellenwood, his predecessor, General Wilson and ex-United States Marshal Paul, arrived yesterday morning. The chief business of this division was to approve the accounts of the officials.

The case of Juan Alatorre charged with sending an obscene letter through the mails and concerning whose guilt a jury had disagreed, was dismissed.

The cases against Harry Bernard and Senora Morales were also dismissed. These latter cases have been before the courts for more than a year but no twelve men have yet been found of the same mind concerning their merits.

The district side of the court was occupied exclusively by two cases. Hernandez, recently convicted of grand larceny, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. Hernandez's offense was the robbery of little children on the street and he was indicted for plain robbery. It will be remembered that the jury at one time reported that it could not agree on a verdict in this case and it is said that the reason was that they had learned from a statute book in the jury room that the lightest punishment for the offense named in the indictment is five years, which they believed would be excessive. Accordingly on their reappearance they brought in a verdict of a lower crime than charged in the indictment. The conviction, however, has therefore availed the prisoner nothing.

The case of W. A. George vs. Dr. A. J. Chandler et al., was on trial when court adjourned. This is a rather interesting case and has its origin in the official acts of Dr. Chandler, as territorial veterinary surgeon, in having ordered destroyed horses valued at $2,500, belonging to the plaintiff, on the ground that they were suffering from glanders. The plaintiff was represented by Col. Franklin and Judge Woodward and the defendant by Mr. C. F. Ainsworth. Last week the defendants filed a demurrer in which it was set forth that the bondsmen of Dr. Chandler could not be held liable, but it was overruled. The plaintiff's testimony was closed last night.

As there will be no other trial cases until June 16, all jurors except those engaged in this case were finally discharged.
